SKELTON HAS AN ACE TO PLAY AT AYR

By Ashley Iveson, PA

Title-chasing Dan Skelton can strike gold on day one of the Scottish Grand National meeting, with a step up in trip expected to suit Ace Of Spades in the Home Safe With Thistle Cabs Handicap Hurdle. This time last week the Alcester handler looked home and hosed in his bid to be crowned Britain's champion trainer for the first time, but the all-conquering Willie Mullins is now right on his tail after saddling five of the first seven home in the Radox Grand National at Aintree. While Mullins looks set to send a formidable squad for Saturday's card at Ayr, he does not saddle a single runner on Friday, giving Skelton the chance to add to his six-figure lead. Ace Of Spades won over two miles at Cheltenham in November before following up over three-quarters of a mile further at Kelso. He came up a little short in his hat-trick bid at the Borders circuit in early March, but still ran a fair race to finish fourth on what was his handicap debut. A further hike in distance to three miles may yield more improvement on his return to Scotland and he should prove hard to beat. Vintage Fizz can earn himself a deserved return to the winner's enclosure with victory in the #50,000 Hillhouse Quarry Handicap Chase. Jedd O'Keeffe's charge has failed to get his head in front since scoring at Bangor in September 2023, but has performed admirably in defeat on a number of occasions. He was beaten just over three lengths into fourth place when bidding to give the best part of a stone to Jagwar on his penultimate start at Wetherby, an effort which looks rock solid given the winner is now rated 147 following three further victories including a Cheltenham Festival success last month. On his most recent appearance Vintage Fizz tackled the Grand National fences at Aintree, finishing second to another subsequent Cheltenham winner in King Turgeon. Having been kept away from winter ground since, O'Keeffe's inmate returns to action on day one of the Scottish Grand National meeting and does not look badly treated off a mark of 129. Fontwell punters should put their faith in Diesel Line in the BetGoodwin Handicap Hurdle, while SwingingontheSteel can double his tally for local trainer Rebecca Menzies in the concluding AK Bets Follow Us On Twitter Open National Hunt Flat Race at Sedgefield. Quality Flat fare comes from Newbury, where Roger Varian's Saddadd sets a fair standard in the Darley EBF Novice Stakes. The Pinatubo colt justified odds-on favouritism with a dominant display on his Southwell debut in December and was last seen finishing third behind the exciting 2000 Guineas contender Opera Ballo on the all-weather at Kempton. The experienced runner-up from that race, Hott Shott, gives the form a solid enough look with a rating of 98 and while Saddadd's latest assignment is not entirely straightforward, with a couple of debut winners taking him on, the Dante and Derby entrant is difficult to oppose. Charging Thunder can continue his fine start to life with James Owen in the Compton Beauchamp Estates Ltd Silver Bar Handicap. Formerly a high-class performer for David O'Meara, the seven-year-old was snapped up for just 20,000 guineas in September and has since won twice on the Flat and twice over hurdles from just five starts for his new connections. A 5lb rise for a clear-cut verdict at Southwell last time does not look insurmountable for a horse who is seemingly in the form of his life.
