Soul’s fortune can change with Nassau strike

By Gideon Brooks, Press Association

It would be understatement to say that Friendly Soul is due a bit of luck this season but after two runs to forget she could get her due reward with a win at the highest level in the Qatar Nassau Stakes at Goodwood. John and Thady Gosden’s mare was the horse that put her foot in a hole at Haydock back in May, an incident which she was fortunate only ended her race and not more given she was at full speed at the time. She then went to Royal Ascot for the Duke of Cambridge Stakes only to fall out of the stalls, get stuck behind a raft of slowing traffic before finishing like a train once in the clear to end up two and a quarter lengths behind Blue Bolt. That piece of form is arguably the best on show given the winner went on to land the Falmouth at Newmarket and the fourth Kon Tiki dotted up at Ascot on Saturday. But she has more than that from her three-year-old back catalogue after scoring four times starting with a length and a quarter defeat of King George heroine Kalpana and finishing with a Group One Prix de l’Opera win at Longchamp. Diamond Necklace sets the standard for the Classic generation but her Prix de Diane win may not be as good as we thought given the performances of those in behind since. If Friendly Soul is ridden up with the pace, the return to 10 furlongs at a track that may well suit her eye could deliver. Enceladus will attract support in the Maison Perrier Gordon Stakes given the form this season of trainer Joseph O’Brien but it is another Irish raider in Geryon who may have the tools to land this Group Three prize. Ger Lyon’s three-year-old colt was highly tried last season, finishing second to both Constitution River and Hawk Mountain and has taken time to hit top gear this season with four placed efforts hinting at limitations. But last time out at Leopardstown he looked transformed, picking up really well and responding to Colin Keane’s drive to pull nearly four lengths clear of a decent field over nine furlongs, a run which suggested the extra distance here should be within his grasp Old Is Gold was gelded at the end of last summer and has been seen just the once so far this campaign in a quiet reintroduction at Sandown when slowly away from the gates. Yet judging on the best of his form last year, you would have to suspect that was to reach peak fitness rather than indicating problems and he could have more than a few pounds in hand in the Buccellati Handicap. On his best show last season he failed by a length to give Ardisia 6lb over six furlongs at this course but given that one is now rated 100 and he is still on 86, Andrew Balding’s four-year-old could have a bit in hand. With a return to five furlongs also looking in his favour he makes plenty of appeal. Ciarrai Abu looked a horse to follow when winning a maiden here in May and was not scrubbed from any notebooks when an eye-catching fourth over a mile again back at Goodwood in June. A narrow win at Ascot last time out looked more for necessity given he was hiked 6lb to 86 in that it ensured he got in here but it has done the job and the Coarl Kincsem Handicap over 10 furlongs has been the plan for Harry Eustace’s gelding all season.
